Life in London will also be discussed during the seminar.

London based Property Dimensions, will discuss life and investment opportunities in London together with DenizBank and British Consulate General in Istanbul. The “Living and Investing in and Via London” Seminar Series II will be held on March 10th, 2011, Thursday at Pera House in Istanbul and will be hosted by Property Dimensions with the collaboration of DenizBank and British Consulate General in Istanbul.

Experts will explain

Metin Güvener, the CEO of Property Dimensions will provide information about life and investment opportunities in London at the seminar. British Consul General Jessica Hand who is also the Director of British Trade and investments will provide her opinions on London as the world Capital of Business. DenizBank Chief Economist Dr. Saruhan Özel will make a speech about his economic expectations regarding London and Istanbul.

DenizBank Private Banking Customers will also attend

DenizBank Private Banking customers, PD London and Consulate guests will attend the seminar where investment, culture and education opportunities in London will be presented to guests.

Opportunities in London will be discussed for investors

Seminar participants will receive in depth information concerning how the current market conditions are generating opportunities for the proactive investor in London. Ones that are looking for an Investment Property, a pied-à-terre in London or for furthering their knowledge on education or relocation will find their answers at the seminar. The seminar also aims to bridge the gap between London and Turkish families. Among the objectives of the Living and Investing Via London seminar are how a combination of the right people, processes and professional bespoke advice can deliver value and a rewarding return.

Since the beginning of the last decade London has been the first choice for a range of continental investors including Russia and later on in the decade Asia with the Chinese in particular.

Property Dimensions aims to promote and strengthen the relationship between the UK and Turkey and provide exciting opportunities for Istanbul investors to leave their mark as the most influential group of investors at the beginning of this new decade.
